The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 26 | Entered at the Post Office at Janesville Wis., as second-class matter. | JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1882. | Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $7 a Year. | NUMBER 84

The National Association of the eclectic physicians assembled in New Haven Connecticut, to-day. Dr. Judd of Janesville, is one of the delegates from Wisconsin,

James Tracy, of Chicago, who killed Officer John Huebner, has been found guilty of murder, and the jury fixed the punishment by hanging by the neck until dead. It was a cold-blooded murder, and the finding of the jury is a righteous one.

If reports can be relied upon, there will be a very interesting contest in the Third district for the Congressional nomination. There will be a powerful effort to defeat Mr. Hazelton and unless his strength is far beyond what it is generally considered to be, he will be left out in the cold. The latest action at Madison on the subject is contained in a dispatch which says that "some of the friends of Mayor Oakley and Senator Burrows got together in Commissioner Spooner's office last night, and united on Ed. E. Bryant as a suitable candidate for Congress from Dane county, and confidentially predict a solid delegation from this county for him. This action will unite some of the opponents to Keyes, who will make a fight in this county. The chances are now that the county will be divided. Keyes means fight as to the candidacy of the would-be regency, and he will doubtless secure a part of the delegation from the county." General Bryant being a former resident of Green, will likely draw some strength from that county. If the Bryant and Keyes faction keep at work they will not only throw considerable interest into the canvass, but will probably defeat Mr. Hazelton."

A gentleman who has been a reader of the Gazette for a number of years sends us a communication in which he says that a once thorough Republican has decided to support that party which will espouse free trade, on the ground that he doesn't believe in that system of protection which will protect 12,000 bushels of rice grown here and levy a duty on the 1,000,000 bushels imported to this country. The new convert to free trade claims that the latest reports show that in 1880 there were only 12,000 bushels of rice grown in the United States, while the importation of that article reached a million bushels, and for that reason he was unwilling to tax the one million bushels for the sake of protecting the small quantity of twelve thousand bushels. Just herein is the new convert mistaken. He has probably been conversing with some free trade Democrat who knows no more about the production of rice in this country and its importation than the Democratic party does of unwavering political principles. In 1880, there were eight States in the Union growing rice. There were in that year 174,173 acres devoted to rice, and the production was 110,131,375, and allowing 65 pounds to the bushel, the product of that crop in the United States for 1880, was over 1,600,000 bushels, while the imports were less than 300,000 bushels. These are facts derived from the latest and most authentic advices and they show what reckless statements free traders will make when they want to defend free trade at the expense of truth.

THE MOLOCH OF THE AIR.

The mighty tornado which swept across the State of Iowa last Saturday night was about 150 miles in length, and on an average of half a mile in width. Its track was through the thickly settled portion of Iowa, extending from Ames in the center of the State and swept in the shape of a crescent to South English, in Keokuk county, in the southeastern part of the State. Up to Monday night the names of 69 dead persons had been known, and 500 persons are known to have been injured, many dangerously hurt, and it is said that one-fifth will die of their wounds. Over 300 families have had their homes literally destroyed, and it is estimated that there are at least 1,500 persons homeless and in want. The estimated loss of property is put at $2,000,000 as the lowest figure, and it is said it may reach $3,000,000. The little city of Grinnell, has suffered a loss of $100,000, and unlike a loss in case of a fire, there is no insurance. It will require $300,000 to place the people beyond need and distress, and $100,000 will be required to put the wounded people in a condition to be cared for. Subscriptions are being rapidly made for the sufferers and in the course of two or three weeks the amount of the relief fund will be $250,000, or 300,000.

Grinnell, the town which has suffered so cruelly by this sad visitation, is one of the most thrifty towns in the State. It was populated by a class from New England and was regarded as the most temperate, moral, and intelligent town in the whole State. It is draped in mourning to-day, half the village in ruins, and all the inhabitants in tears and distress.

The tornado traveled very rapidly, and the south branch of it started at Garden Prairie, Boone county, at 7:30 o'clock, and was south of Ames at 7:45, at Grinnell at 8:45, Malcolm at 9:15, and at Mount Pleasant at 11 o'clock. Many persons describe the storm-cloud as like a long rope, swinging backward and forward and reaching from sky to earth.

Virtue Acknowleged.

Mrs. Ira Mulholland, Albany, N. Y., writes: "For several years I have suffered from oft-recuring billious headaches, dyspepsia, and complaints peculiar to my sex. Since using your BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS I am entirely relieved." Price $1,00.

PENNSYLVANIA.

HARRISBURG, June 20—The indications are there will be a full attendance at the convention to-morrow. A letter will be presented from John Wannamaker declining the nomination of Congressman-at-large. The most prominent candidates now are General Lilly, Judge Agnew, Howard Jacobs, and E. N. Benson. The leaders are informally talking the situation over to-night, but there is no formal caucus. Chris Magee says he cannot tell what the action of the Pittsburg delegation will be until the delegate consult to-morrow. The Philadelphia delegates speak similarly. Magee is emphatic in opposition to calling another convention, and so are many Philadelphia delegates, while some of those from the other counties, and at least one influential Philadelphia delegates speak in favor of taking that step as a means of saving the party from what they say will otherwise prove a disastrous warfare in their own ranks.

Judge Jessup, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions at the convention the 10th of May, is one of those who favor conservative action in the interest of harmony. Senator Cameron is not in the city, and those acquainted with his intentions say he will not be here to-morrow.

VANDERBILT'S PURCHASE

MILWAUKEE, June 20—Alexander Mitchell, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, when questioned late this evening by your reporter in regard to the rumored heavy purchases of St. Paul stock by Vanderbilt, said that Vanderbilt had purchased some of the stock, but what amount he could not state. He thought it safe, however to place the amount at $2,000,000. Mr. Mitchell stated, further, that Vanderbilt had for the past year been buying small amounts of St. Paul at different times. Some of the directors interviewed placed Vanderbilt's interest in the road at $4,000,000, but this is probably too high. Whether Vanderbilt's purchase was for the purpose of ultimately getting control of the St. Paul, or simply because he believed it to be a good investment, is still an unsettled question in the minds of the officers of the company here.

THE FIRE RECORD.

ROCHESTER, N, Y., June 20.—At 12 o'clock last night fire broke out in the oil-room of the Johnston Harvester Works in Brockport, and spread with such rapidity that the establishment was soon in ruins. Efforts of the village firemen, assisted by men and apparatus from the city, proved unavailing. About 450 hands are thrown out. Loss on Johnston's harvester works is estimated at $500,000, but it will probably exceed those figures. Insurance $200,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Fire broke out about 2 a. m. on the Oakland pier in the vicinity of the old ferry slip and depot. The losses are: On the wharf and warehouse, $20,000; the ship Great Western and cargo, $40,000; the British bark Norna, damaged mostly in the rigging, $8,000. The ships Centennial and Big Bonanza were towed out before receiving serious damage. The fire originated in a warehouse.

TOLEDO, O., June 20.—A disastrous conflagration occurred in this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon, breaking out in the planing mill of W. H. Schroeder. The flames spread so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the workmen could make their escape, and the neighboring buildings, especially the gasworks, were endangered. The planing-mill was almost entirely destroyed, entailing a loss of about $27,000, on which the insurance was $15,000.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

BELOIT, June 20.—Dr. E. N. Clark, of this city, was married at Detroit, Mich., yesterday morning to Mrs. Conant, of Ogdensburg, N. Y. Arriving at Evanston last evening, Mrs. Clark suddenly died. His friends awaiting his coming are terribly shocked, and deeply sympathize with the bereaved man.

Harmony.

—A meeting has been held of all those interested in improving the cemetery grounds, and Mr. Leake, Augustus Wilcox, and Truman Rice, were chosen to solicit subscriptions, and take charge of the work. They have erected a tool house, built carriage steps, and have otherwise made marked improvements, and are yet going to buy a bier and tools that are necessary for burial.

—It is said that Mrs. Nettie Hoskins entends soon to start for Texas, where her husband is in business raising sheep.

—The young folks will have a dance at Mr. David Clark's, next Tuesday evening. It is under the efficient and able management of Walt. Turner, Frank Wilmot, Cale Crandle and Rob. Brown. Special invitations are the order, and all that come will have a good time. John Smith and his band will furnish the music.

Johnstown.

—The special meeting of the Teacher's Library Association, called by the president, Superintendent Jones, was held at the rooms of the association on Saturday last. The secretary reported a membership of 80 with $77 in the treasury. A list of books recommended by the purchasing committee, was read by the president and adopted by the association and are to be procured by the first week in July. Besides the amount of money on hand there have been contributed by Sheldon & Co., twelve volumes, from Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., through their agent A. J. Cheney, fifteen volumes, from National Furniture Co., a valuable historical map from Harper & Brothers twenty-nine volumes besides a number of volumes contributed by Superintendent Jones and others.

A beautiful picture the gift of Dr. Jones and Superintendent Jones, of Clinton, adorns the walls. In short the library is finely embelished and by the first of July will be available to the members. Let the good work go on and library teachers feel that they are special agents to push forward the work. Mr. Slaymaker is doing the best he can to push forward the work of fitting up the room, and giving his hearty cooperation in the work.

Any contribution of books or money can be sent to Prof. Burton, Janesville Wm. Jones, Clinton, or C. S. Groesbeck, at Johnstown Center, and will be duly credited.

In Miss Katie's absence society will have have one vacant spot, may she soon return to fill it again.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Hull have returned from a visit to their son in Elgin, Ill.

—Mr. Orson Truman came up from Rockford to attend the funeral of his brother, Mr. J. A. Truman, which was held at the United Brethren church on Sunday last.

—M. E. Teetshorn, of Green Bay, spent Sunday in Lima.

—The many friends of Mr. Jesse Collins, who moved with his family to Huron, Dakota, some few months ago, will regret that he is at present suffering with the cancer which has troubled him for some time.

—Mr. J. M. Fritts has sold his farm to a Mr. Bellman, of Hebron, Jefferson county. We understand he retains posession of the place until next fall.

—On Saturday evening last a large number of the friends of Mrs. Ellen Charles and Miss Kate Anderson, upon the invitation of Miss Mina Gould, gathered at her father's residence. The evening was pleasantly passed in listening to music, social converse and select readings (from Peck's Sun.) At 10:30 ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. All seemed to enjoy themselves well.

A Bride Shot Dead.

[From the Platteville (Wis.) Witness 15th:]

Yesterday (Wednesday) morning Mrs. Lewis Sisley, was found dead about one hundred yards from her home, in the town of Lima, with four bullet holes in her body. We give the following facts from the best information we could obtain: Deceased was a daughter of Hiram Bickford, Esq., of the town of Mifflin. She was married to Lewis Sisley on Monday last, the 12th. They went to his home in the town of Lima and were occupying a house in company with Mr. and Mrs Hamilton. The building is a small one story and a half. The lower story is divided into two rooms. The upper story is all in one and was used as a sleeping room by both parties, the beds being separated by a curtain. On Tuesday night after all had retired, a charivari party visited them and gave them some music. They wanted Mr. Sisley to come down but he would not do it, telling them that if they had come earlier he would have asked them in and treated them. After some good humored parleying the party left. When he first went to bed he had placed a Colt's revolver under his pillow. Neither he or Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton heard anything unusual or were disturbed during the night. Next morning when Mr. S. got up he noticed his wife was not in bed, but supposed she had gone down stairs. He dressed himself and went down. Not finding his wife there he first built a fire in the cook stove, then went and brought a pail of water. His wife still not making her appearance he went to look for her, and after some search found her about one hundred yards from the house, lying on her back with her hands across her adbomen, the pistol also in close proximity to her hands. He would have carried the body to the house, but was prevented in order that the coroner's jury might see the exact position in which she was found. A messenger was sent to Platteville and Justice Gardner summoned a jury, who, accompanied by Dr. Robertson, went and held an inquest on the remains. The post mortem revealed that two of the shots passed through her left lung, and that one of them passed through her heart, and that either of them would have proved fatal. The other hardly penetrated the skin. She had all the clothing on she was accustomed to wearing, even to a necktie. The clothing over the abdomen and on the arms as far as the elbows was burned off. The circumstances connected with her death are, to say the least, very mysterious.

Delicate Females.

The exactions of society, added to the cares of maternity and the household, have tested beyond endurance the frail constitutions which have been granted the majority of women. To combat this tendency to premature decline, no remedy in the world possesses the nourishing and strengthening properties of MALT BITTERS. They enrich the blood, perfect digestion, stimulate the liver and kidneys, arrest ulcerative weaknesses, and purify and vitalize every function of the female system.

A Colored Gath.

There is a negro boy employed at Buhr's Hotel, Frankfort, Ky., to make fires, black boots and render himself generally useful. His peculiarity is to exploit his personal acquaintances with people. He is a sort of "Gath" in ebony.

"What is your name, boy?"

"Julius," he replied.

"Any kin to Julius Cæsar?" (wishing to be facetious at his expense, and there being a listener or two within hearing).

"Oh, no; Julius Cæsar was my mammy's old master." (Julius is as black as midnight in the gasless Valley of Frankfort).

"Was, eh?"

"Yes; lived on Elkhorn, six miles from heer. I 'member him well. He only died a few years ago."

"He died in the Capitol, I believe?"

"No, he died heer; it was 'fore de Capitol was bilt." (Julius was evidently thinking of the Capitol Hotel).

"Did you ever see Brutus?" I continued.

(Pausing a moment to reflect)—"You mean de nigga that was killed at the depot? Yes, I knew him. Used to haul down dar, and got run over by de cars."

"What of Cassius; did you ever see him?"

(Hesitatingly)—"You mean de nigger dat was sent up? Ya, I knew him. Went to the Pen'tentiary for stealin' a coat. He died dar, I thinks."

"You seem to have a large acquaintance, Julius, and must know Marc Antony?"

"Guess I does" (not looking up, but giving extra energy to the brush). "Giv him an extra shine yesterday mornin'. Paid me a nickel with a hole in it. Meanest man in Frankfort."

"Did you see Cleopatra when here last?"

"You mean de woman wat played in de theater? Yes, indeed, boss; she stopped here in dis house. Mighty nice woman."

A gentleman to whom I related this confabulation with Julius told me that the boy was bragging to him one morning about his knowledge of horses. He asked him if he ever saw Alexander's Bucephalus. "Over in Woodford?" he answered; "yes, indeed. I broke him when a colt. I was the first boy that ever straddled him."—Cincinnati Commercial.

Just herein is the new convert mistaken. He has probably been conversing with some free trade Democrat who knows no more about the production of rice in this country and its importation than the Democratic party does of unwavering political principles. In 1880, there were eight States in the Union growing rice. There were in that year 174,173 acres devoted to rice, and the production was 110,131,375, and allowing 65 pounds to the bushel, the product of that crop in the United States for 1880, was over 1,600,000 bushels, while the imports were less than 300,000 bushels. These are facts derived from the latest and most authentic advices and they show what reckless statements free traders will make when they want to defend free trade at the expense of truth.

Up to Monday night the names of 69 dead persons had been known, and 500 persons are known to have been injured, many dangerously hurt, and it is said that one-fifth will die of their wounds. Over 300 families have had their homes literally destroyed, and it is estimated that there are at least 1,500 persons homeless and in want. The estimated loss of property is put at $2,000,000 as the lowest figure, and it is said it may reach $3,000,000. The little city of Grinnell, has suffered a loss of $400,000, and unlike a loss in case of a fire, there is no insurance. It will require $300,000 to place the people beyond need and distress, and $100,000 will be required to put the wounded people in a condition to be cared for. Subscriptions are being rapidly made for the sufferers and in the course of two or three weeks the amount of the relief fund will be $250,000, or 300,000.

Grinnell, the town which has suffered so cruelly by this sad visitation, is one of the most thrifty towns in the State. It was populated by a class from New England and was regarded as the most temperate, moral, and intelligent town in the whole State. It is draped in mourning to-day, half the village in ruins, and all the inhabitants in tears and distress.

The tornado traveled very rapidly, and the south branch of it started at Garden Prairie, Boone county, at 7:30 o'clock, and was south of Ames at 7:45, at Grinnell at 8:45, Malcolm at 9:15, and at Mount Pleasant at 11 o'clock. Many persons describe the storm-cloud as like a long rope, swinging backward and forward and reaching from sky to earth.

Virtue Acknowleged.

Mrs. Ira Mutholland, Albany, N. Y., writes: "For several years I have suffered from oft-recuring billious headaches, dyspepsia, and complaints peculiar to my sex. Since using your BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS I am entirely relieved." Price $1.00.

PENNSYLVANIA.

HARRISBURG, June 20—The indications are there will be a full attendance at the convention to-morrow. A letter will be presented from John Wannamaker declining the nomination of Congressman-at-large. The most prominent candidates now are General Lilly, Judge Agnew, Howard Jacobs, and E. N. Benson. The leaders are informally talking the situation over to-night, but there is no formal caucus. Chris Magee says he cannot tell what the action of the Pittsburg delegation will be until the delegate consult to-morrow. The Philadelphia delegates speak similarly. Magee is emphatic in opposition to calling another convention, and so are many Philadelphia delegates, while some of those from the other counties, and at least one influential Philadelphia delegates speak in favor of taking that step as a means of saving the party from what they say will otherwise prove a disastrous warfare in their own ranks.

Judge Jessup, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions at the convention the 10th of May, is one of those who favor conservative action in the interest of harmony. Senator Cameron is not in the city, and those acquainted with his intentions say he will not be here to-morrow.

VANDERBILT'S PURCHASE

MILWAUKEE, June 20—Alexander Mitchell, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, when questioned late this evening by your reporter in regard to the rumored heavy purchases of St. Paul stock by Vanderbilt, said that Vanderbilt had purchased some of the stock, but what amount he could not state. He thought it safe, however to place the amount at $2,000,000. Mr. Mitchell stated, further, that Vanderbilt had for the past year been buying small amounts of St. Paul at different times. Some of the directors interviewed placed Vanderbilt's interest in the road at $4,000,000, but this is probably too high. Whether Vanderbilt's purchase was for the purpose of ultimately getting control of the St. Paul, or simply because he believed it to be a good investment, is still an unsettled question in the minds of the officers of the company here.

THE FIRE RECORD.

ROCHESTER, N, Y., June 20.—At 12 o'clock last night fire broke out in the oil-room of the Johnston Harvester Works in Brockport, and spread with such rapidity that the establishment was soon in ruins. Efforts of the village firemen, assisted by men and apparatus from the city, proved unavailing. About 450 hands are thrown out. Loss on Johnston's harvester works is estimated at $500,000, but it will probably exceed those figures. Insurance $200,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Fire broke out about 2 a. m. on the Oakland pier in the vicinity of the old ferry slip and depot. The losses are: On the wharf and warehouse, $20,000; the ship Great Western and cargo, $40,000; the British bark Norna, damaged mostly in the rigging, $8,000. The ships Centennial and Big Bonanza were towed out before receiving serious damage. The fire originated in a warehouse.

TOLEDO, O., June 20.—A disastrous conflagration occurred in this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon, breaking out in the planing mill of W. H. Schroeder. The flames spread so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the workmen could make their escape, and the neighboring buildings, especially the gasworks, were endangered. The planing-mill was almost entirely destroyed, entailing a loss of about $27,000, on which the insurance was $15,000.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

BELOIT, June 20.—Dr. E. N. Clark, of this city, was married at Detroit, Mich., yesterday morning to Mrs. Conant, of Ogdensburg, N. Y. Arriving at Evanston last evening, Mrs. Clark suddenly died. His friends awaiting his coming are terribly shocked, and deeply sympathize with the bereaved man.

Harmony.

—A meeting has been held of all those interested in improving the cemetery grounds, and Mr. Leake, Augustus Wilcox, and Truman Rice, were chosen to solicit subscriptions, and take charge of the work. They have erected a tool house, built carriage steps, and have otherwise made marked improvements, and are yet going to buy a bier and tools that are necessary for burial.

—It is said that Mrs. Nettie Hoskins entends soon to start for Texas, where her husband is in business raising sheep.

—The young folks will have a dance at Mr. David Clark's, next Tuesday evening. It is under the efficient and able management of Walt. Turner, Frank Wilmot, Cale Crandle and Rob. Brown. Special invitations are the order, and all that come will have a good time. John Smith and his band will furnish the music.

Johnstown.

—The special meeting of the Teacher's Library Association, called by the president, Superintendent Jones, was held at the rooms of the association on Saturday last. The secretary reported a membership of 80 with $77 in the treasury. A list of books recommended by the purchasing committee, was read by the president and adopted by the association and are to be procured by the first week in July. Besides the amount of money on hand there have been contributed by Sheldon & Co., twelve volumes, from Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., through their agent A. J. Cheney, fifteen volumes, from National Furniture Co., a valuable historical map from Harper & Brothers twenty-nine volumes besides a number of volumes contributed by Superintendent Jones and others.

A beautiful picture the gift of Dr. Jones and Superintendent Jones, of Clinton, adorns the walls. In short the library is finely embelished and by the first of July will be available to the members. Let the good work go on and library teachers feel that they are special agents to push forward the work. Mr. Slaymaker is doing the best he can to push forward the work of fitting up the room, and giving his hearty cooperation in the work.

Any contribution of books or money can be sent to Prof. Burton, Janesville Wm. Jones, Clinton, or C. S. Groesbeck, at Johnstown Center, and will be duly credited.

A Bride Shot Dead.

[From the Platteville (Wis.) Witness 15th.]

Yesterday (Wednesday) morning Mrs. Lewis Sisley, was found dead about one hundred yards from her home, in the town of Lima, with four bullet holes in her body. We give the following facts from the best information we could obtain: Deceased was a daughter of Hiram Bickford, Esq., of the town of Mifflin. She was married to Lewis Sisley on Monday last, the 12th. They went to his home in the town of Lima and were occupying a house in company with Mr. and Mrs Hamilton. The building is a small one story and a half. The lower story is divided into two rooms. The upper story is all in one and was used as a sleeping room by both parties, the beds being separated by a curtain. On Tuesday night after all had retired, a charivari party visited them and gave them some music. They wanted Mr. Sisley to come down but he would not do it, telling them that if they had come earlier he would have asked them in and treated them. After some good humored parleying the party left. When he first went to bed he had placed a Colt's revolver under his pillow. Neither he or Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton heard anything unusual or were disturbed during the night. Next morning when Mr. S. got up he noticed his wife was not in bed, but supposed she had gone down stairs. He dressed himself and went down. Not finding his wife there he first built a fire in the cook stove, then went and brought a pail of water. His wife still not making her appearance he went to look for her, and after some search found her about one hundred yards from the house, lying on her back with her hands across her adbomen, the pistol also in close proximity to her hands. He would hove carried the body to the house, but was prevented in order that the coroner's jury might see the exact position in which she was found. A messenger was sent to Platteville and Justice Gardner summoned a jury, who, accompanied by Dr. Robertson, went and held an inquest on the remains. The post mortem revealed that two of the shots passed through her left lung, and that one of them passed through her heart, and that either of them would have proved fatal. The other hardly penetrated the skin. She had all the clothing on she was accustomed to wearing, even to a necktie. The clothing over the abdomen and on the arms as far as the elbows was burned off. The circumstances connected with her death are, to say the least, very mysterious.

Delicate Females.

The exactions of society, added to the cares of maternity and the household, have tested beyond endurance the frail constitutions which have been granted the majority of women. To combat this tendency to premature decline, no remedy in the world possesses the nourishing and strengthening properties of MALT BITTERS. They enrich the blood, perfect digestion, stimulate the liver and kidneys, arrest ulcerative weaknesses, and purify and vitalize every function of the female system.

A Colored Gath.

There is a negro boy employed at Buhr's Hotel, Frankfort, Ky., to make fires, black boots and render himself generally useful. His peculiarity is to exploit his personal acquaintances with people. He is a sort of "Gath" in ebony.

"What is your name, boy?"

"Julius," he replied.

"Any kin to Julius Cæsar?" (wishing to be facetious at his expense, and there being a listener or two within hearing).

"Oh, no; Julius Cæsar was my mammy's old master." (Julius is as black as midnight in the gasless Valley of Frankfort).

"Was, eh?"

"Yes; lived on Elkhorn, six miles from heer. I 'member him well. He only died a few years ago."

"He died in the Capitol, I believe?"

"No, he died heer; it was 'fore de Capitol was bilt." (Julius was evidently thinking of the Capitol Hotel).

"Did you ever see Brutus?" I continued.

(Pausing a moment to reflect)—"You mean de nigga that was killed at the depot? Yes, I knew him. Used to haul down dar, and got run over by de cars."

"What of Cassius; did you ever see him?"

(Hesitatingly)—"You mean de nigger dat was sent up? Ya, I knew him. Went to the Pen'tentiary for stealin' a coat. He died dar, I thinks."

"You seem to have a large acquaintance, Julius, and must know Marc Antony?"

"Guess I does" (not looking up, but giving extra energy to the brush). "Giv him an extra shine yesterday mornin'. Paid me a nickel with a hole in it. Meanest man in Frankfort."

"Did you see Cleopatra when here last?"

"You mean de woman wat played in de theater? Yes, indeed, boss; she stopped here in dis house. Mighty nice woman."

A gentleman to whom I related this confabulation with Julius told me that the boy was bragging to him one morning about his knowledge of horses. He asked him if he ever saw Alexander's Bucephalus. "Over in Woodford?" he answered; "yes, indeed. I broke him when a colt. I was the first boy that ever straddled him."—Cincinnati Commercial.

More Grass.

Keeping up the fertility of the soil is one of the most difficult as well as the most important part of the farmer's work. On rich soil the crops can be maintained to the standard quantity in yield for a long time by thorough cultivation, which brings the elements of fertility into contact with the atmosphere and the rains and frosts continually dissolve them so as to be readily taken up by the plant. This is the office of cultivation, together with the necessity of keeping the soil mellow so that the roots can penetrate, and drought be robbed of its effects. But cultivation restores nothing to the soil. On the contrary, it tends to more perfectly deprive the soil of its fertility by producing better crops that carry away more of the mineral elements. When we take from the soil more than we return, there is a loss of fertility. We may not perceive it in strong soils for a long time, but it is nevertheless slowly and steadily decreasing, and though it may not be noticed for a generation the time will come when the depletion will be so great that failure of crops will be the result. This fact has been so frequently observed that it can not be denied. Now, the first occupier of the soil has no right to get all he can from it and do nothing to keep it good. Some of the work we call farming is absolute piracy, and robbery of future generations. It may be necessary on new soils and in pioneer farming to go on for a time taking away without putting back, but this should not last, and the effort to restore as much a possible should be begun early and continually kept up.

The gradual decrease of crops, notwithstanding the large amount of virgin soil annually put under cultivation, is sufficiently significant to the careful observer that we are lacking in one important element of good farming. The fact that the New England States do not decrease in their yield of crops is easily accounted for from the fact that they are constantly using much more than they produce. A large amount of the surplus produce of the west finds a market and is fed and used there, helping to fertilize their land at the expense of the rich soils of the West. They are in this way able to not only keep up, but actually increase their average yield.

As a people we are careless in regard to our care of the waste of our products. In our cities, which consume so large a portion of the produce raised on our farms, the sewers carry off large quantities of fertilizing material that should in some way be returned to the soil. We are continually sending to Europe our grain, to be fed there and help enrich their soil. We are neglecting to preserve nearly all the wastes of various manufactories which contain valuable fertilizers. The wastes on the farm, right where they can be used, are lost. Barn-yard manure is so managed as to lose half its value, and in many cases is put on the land with a view solely to get it out of the way, and to save the necessity, as has been told of the farmers on the rich prairies, of moving the barns and stables. We must have a great reformation. But before this can be effected farmers must be made to see the necessity of keeping the soil up to its highest state of fertility. They must learn to feel that they have no right to rob the future of any capital the soil contains, and then perhaps may begin better systems and which in the end will be more profitable. We have written this much preliminary to the main point we wish to make: the increase of the grass crop, to show its necessity as one of the means of keeping up the fertility of the soil. More grass means more stock and more manure to enrich the farm. Beside, the grass itself provides a large quantity of fertilizing material. Prof. Kedzie, from careful estimate, found that the weight of fresh vegetable matter in an acre of green sward was 25 tons, and that its manurial value was equal to fresh barn-yard manure, and all this is in addition to the feed produced. Where large crops of grass can be raised the grain crops following will give a bountiful yield also. Where three tons and upward of hay can be grown on an acre, as can be done on all good soils, there is no cheaper feed to raise for feeding stock.

Farmers depend mainly on timothy and clover for the hay crop, and also, on many farms, for pasture, and the seeding often fails. This can be largely prevented by giving the soil a top dressing before or after sowing the grain with barnyard manure, at least partly rotted. This will give protection from frost in winter and drought in spring and summer, and render a failure in seeding the exception. If the soil is not already rich apply in September, after haying, ten, fifteen or twenty loads per acre of rotted manure, with ashes leached, or unleached if they are to be had, and the increase in the succeeding hay crop will pay all expense. Plaster for clover, and if commercial fertilizers are used, and they should be if there is not enough of others, bone-dust is a capital application for grass. Never pasture the meadow in the fall or spring. The damage is far more than the gain from the feed obtained. As a rule the seed of grasses is not sown thickly enough. A careful calculation from an estimate of the number of seeds in a quart or bushel seems to make a certain quantity amply sufficient for a given area, but the difficulty lies in the fact that about twenty-five per cent. of the seed does not grow and another large per cent. can not, because it is not covered with soil, or is covered too deep. Other grasses should also be sown with timothy and clover to make thicker sod and increase the bulk of growth; such as red top, orchard grass, blue grass, alsike and white clover are good for this purpose, according to the soil and climate. The habit of relying on one or two grasses only does not produce the largest crops obtainable.

In seeding for pasture there is room for improvement. There are portions of almost every farm that are unfitted to enter into the general rotation of the farm, and are more profitable to remain permanently in grass. These should be plowed and seeded with a variety of grasses suited to the soil and such as will give a succession of feed from early spring to the coming of winter and are tenacious of life, that can endure drought, heat and cold, and are perennial. The list suited to our climate is small. There are without doubt many more that would acclimate and succeed well if introduced.

Kentucky blue grass is one of the best, if not the best pasture grass. Botanists assert that it is the same as our June grass, growing more luxuriantly on richer, moister soils. What we call June grass gradually works into most of our soils as the more tender varieties die out, but on dry soil it does not furnish a supply of food the whole season, and there are doubtless other grasses that would on such soils keep up the growth in succession during the season. While experiments have been made with grains and new varieties produced, there has been but little gains taken in improving our grasses, and no very direct efforts been made to introduced new varieties. In England, on high priced lands the pastures are so rich and so well kept that stock can be kept at a profit; and so can we if we take more pains to get them rich and well seeded, although our climate is not so good as theirs for this purpose, being much drier.

One mistake made in feeding stock on pastures is in allowing them to be eaten off too closely during a drought or late in the fall. At either time it is decidedly at a loss that they are so fed.

If farmers will pay more attention to their grass crops, in enriching the soil, in seeding and after care, they will find them a great help in keeping up the fertility of their soils, both in the manurial elements the sod contains for the grain crops that follow in regular rotation, and also in aiding to keep a large amount of stock to make more manure in the yard. It is a known fact that at least half of the mineral elements in food given to animals is returned to the soil through the manure heap.—Detroit Post and Tribune.

Peculiarities of Speech.

Just as the native Southerner is betrayed in his speech by the peculiarity of voice and pronunciation, so is the Western Yankee distinguished from the New Englander. The typical Yankee, slow of words, talking with a nasal twang, and answering a question by asking another, is still to be met with occasionally. Then the total absence of r-sounds in the words of the inhabitant of Northern New England is another peculiarity; he pronounces such words as warm, storm and the like as if written wahm, stohm, etc., just as the Kentuckian does. He says obleeqe, deestrict and pictur', but he pronounces can't correctly. In fact he is given to broad vowel sounds, and pass, lass, class, etc., are pronounced after the British method. He likewise enunciates half as correctly as the average schoolma'am of Ohio, and he would laugh himself hoarse at the bare idea of calling a calf a "caff." Such barbarisms as cam, sam and pam, for the pure, noble-sounding words calm, psalm and palm are never heard in this part of the Union. I wish I could say as much for Ohio, for it really seems when one hears a man who has received a university training give utterance to such flat, vapid sounds, that a portion at least of that man's education has been in vain. On the whole, the New England Yankee who has never left his native hills, and whose schooling has been so little that he spells college with a d, speaks, I think, better English, and speaks it more grammatically, than men of other portions of the country whose educational advantages have been greater. Of course, habit has much to do with it; children learn to talk as their parents and grandparents talk, and often years of contact with the world fails to smooth the jagged edges of certain inherited colloquial expressions. For instance, a Maine Yankee will insist upon calling a single horse and buggy a "team;" he says of a pauper that he is "on the town;" of a bankrupt that he has "failed up;" beside pronouncing all words ending in er exactly as though a were the termination. He repudiates the soft impeachment of saying naow, caow and taown, and declares that that system of pronunciation is peculiar to Vermont and York State, and has no place in the vocabulary of a Down-Easter.—Cincinnati Commercial.

"A Screw Loose."

I have written so many articles about the importance of attending to matters on the farm "in the nick of time," when "one stich stich will save nine," if taken at the proper moment, that I am half afraid to write again on a subject which so many of our agricultural writers have rung the changes on, for fear that some one will say it is a hobby of mine, and that so much talk about keeping everything in "apple-pie order," is quite likely to prove "too much of a good thing." But I have just seen so pertinent an illustration of the folly of neglecting what ought to be done now until some time when there was nothing else to do, that I want to make use of it for the benefit of those who can profit more by a narration of actual experience than they can by abstract ideas.

One of my neighbors has a drag-saw. During the winter he goes about, from house to house, sawing wood.

Last week I had him engaged to saw wood for me. The logs were well skidded. Everything was conviently arranged.

When he came he looked over the woodpile, and his face was expressive of satisfaction.

"I can put in a good week's work here," I heard him tell his boy. "They've got everything handy. There won't be anything to bother us. We can saw at least twice as much here as we did at the last place. We'll make a good thing out of it if we don't have any bad luck."

The machine was set, and by noon on Monday, everything was in readiness for operation. I went out to the wood-lot directly after dinner to see the machine started up.

Just before they began to saw, the boy came to his father and said:

"There's a screw loose on the lower part of the saw-frame. It ought to be fixed now; hadn't it!"

"Well, yes, I s'pose it had," was the reply. "But we won't bother with it now, I guess. I'll fall at it and tighten 'em all up after we get through today."

Now, it would not have taken ten minutes to have examined the whole machine and tightened every bolt that was loose. But no—by and by he would attend to it; there was more important business on hand now.

Behold the result! About an hour after they began to saw there was a grand crash, and matters came to a sudden standstill.

On investigation it was found that the "loose screw" had caused the mischief. The frame was broken, and the saw also.

"What does the damage amount to?" I asked.

"Well," was the reply, as the owner looked the machine over, "it will take just about twenty-five dollars to get a new saw and frame. There's that much in cash that's got to go before we can do anything more, and it'll take about four days for the saw to come; so there's the loss of four days' work of myself and team. Figuring them in at three dollars a day, and that's putting it low, there's twelve dollars more, making thirty-seven. You can safely reckon on the accident costing forty or forty-five dollars. That's the way the profits go. But if I'd seen to that loose screw it wouldn't have happened. That's what always comes of letting things ago when you know they ought to be attended to."

I draw no morals. I leave that for the reader to do."—Eben E. Rexford, in Christian Union.

The Cuban Gentleman.

He appears to you at first a man all hair, eyes, teeth and shirt collar. It is not precisely the correct view, but such is apt to be the impression conveyed to a conservative and doubting mind. After better acquaintance he gives you the idea of a man who is at least sui generis, with a unique form of body and a hitherto unclassified type of mind. After a year or two he begins to seem to you to be a rather clever fellow, with traits that are seldom observed to exist in a character otherwise excellent, but an agreeable man in many respects. To a coutenance always expressive of a certain refinement, often of great beauty, and almost never coarse, angular or hard, he joins a physique the thinnest and most attenuated ever found compatible with locomotion and the general control of a muscular system. His legs are spindles, his arms much like flattened sticks somewhat enlarged at the articulations. Of stomach he usually has about as much as birds of the crane species are remarkable for, and is seldom disposed to undue enlargement in the region of the waistband. His shoulders are thin and sharp, and if he stoops slightly, it need not necessarily be regarded as an indication either of scholarship or disease of the lungs. His complexion is seldom fair, and generally of a not unhandsome swarthiness, though sometimes approaching a hue that, by the present opinion of prejudiced mankind, is not exactly a society color. But I have never seen a Cuban with what we call a "dumb" face or an unintelligent eye.

This man is the born dandy. He wears jewelry like a woman and like a woman's. He pinches feet that are small enough naturally into agonizing shoes. He wears collars monstrons in size or ridiculous in smallness, with shirts of dazzling colors and cuts so very decollete that you may observe the sharp ends of his collar-bones and the very bottom of his thin throat. At the date of this writing he goes about the streets with pantaloons that hang upon his little legs like bags, and flap and yaw in the breeze. His coat seems to have been made for a taller man, whereas a year ago it had a tendency to creep upward toward the back of his neck. But the centerpiece and glory of his costume is his hat. Where such fashions in headgear as he delights himself with really have their origin I know not. As the climate is warm, and seemingly for that reason, the hat is narrow, black, heavy and shaped like an inverted stovekettle. This man sometimes attends a ball in a black dress suit, a white necktie and a green shirt. A Cuban town is full of such figures, and few of them are, by any chance, at work at anything. Born in a slave country, the presumptive, probable or actual heir to a share in some sugar plantation, or if not, living by his wits or upon his relations, the young Cubans imagines that his destiny is to ornament the tropics; to be a thing of beauty, and kill time while he is thus elegantly occupied.—Cuban Sketches.

A Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Baptist Minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL cured me." I was troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Electric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diptheria, and "Thomas' Electric Oil cured them," and if taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by snuffing as hard as they can, until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and ear-ache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration, I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

More Grass.

Keeping up the fertility of the soil is one of the most difficult as well as the most important part of the farmer's work. On rich soil the crops can be maintained to the standard quantity in yield for a long time by thorough cultivation, which brings the elements of fertility into contact with the atmosphere and the rains and frosts continually dissolve them so as to be readily taken up by the plant. This is the office of cultivation, together with the necessity of keeping the soil mellow so that the roots can penetrate, and drought be robbed of its effects. But cultivation restores nothing to the soil. On the contrary, it tends to more perfectly deprive the soil of its fertility by producing better crops that carry away more of the mineral elements. When we take from the soil more than we return, there is a loss of fertility. We may not perceive it in strong soils for a long time, but it is nevertheless slowly and steadily decreasing, and though it may not be noticed for a generation the time will come when the depletion will be so great that failure of crops will be the result. This fact has been so frequently observed that it can not be denied. Now, the first occupier of the soil has no right to get all he can from it and do nothing to keep it good. Some of the work we call farming is absolute piracy, and robbery of future generations. It may be necessary on new soils and in pioneer farming to go on for a time taking away without putting back, but this should not last, and the effort to restore as much a possible should be begun early and continually kept up.

The gradual decrease of crops, notwithstanding the large amount of virgin soil annually put under cultivation, is sufficiently significant to the careful observer that we are lacking in one important element of good farming. The fact that the New England States do not decrease in their yield of crops is easily accounted for from the fact that they are constantly using much more than they produce. A large amount of the surplus produce of the west finds a market and is fed and used there, helping to fertilize their land at the expense of the rich soils of the West. They are in this way able to not only keep up, but actually increase their average yield.

As a people we are careless in regard to our care of the waste of our products. In our cities, which consume so large a portion of the produce raised on our farms, the sewers carry off large quantities of fertilizing material that should in some way be returned to the soil. We are continually sending to Europe our grain, to be fed there and help enrich their soil. We are neglecting to preserve nearly all the wastes of various manufactories which contain valuable fertilizers. The wastes on the farm, right where they can be used, are lost. Barn-yard manure is so managed as to lose half its value, and in many cases is put on the land with a view solely to get it out of the way, and to save the necessity, as has been told of the farmers on the rich prairies, of moving the barns and stables. We must have a great reformation. But before this can be effected farmers must be made to see the necessity of keeping the soil up to its highest state of fertility. They must learn to feel that they have no right to rob the future of any capital the soil contains, and then perhaps may begin better systems and which in the end will be more profitable. We have written this much preliminary to the main point we wish to make: the increase of the grass crop, to show its necessity as one of the means of keeping up the fertility of the soil. More grass means more stock and more manure to enrich the farm. Beside, the grass itself provides a large quantity of fertilizing material. Prof. Kedzie, from careful estimate, found that the weight of fresh vegetable matter in an acre of green sward was 25 tons, and that its manurial value was equal to fresh barn-yard manure, and all this is in addition to the feed produced. Where large crops of grass can be raised the grain crops following will give a bountiful yield also. Where three tons and upward of hay can be grown on an acre, as can be done on all good soils, there is no cheaper feed to raise for feeding stock.

Farmers depend mainly on timothy and clover for the hay crop, and also, on many farms, for pasture, and the seeding often fails. This can be largely prevented by giving the soil a top dressing before or after sowing the grain with barnyard manure, at least partly rotted. This will give protection from frost in winter and drought in spring and summer, and render a failure in seeding the exception. If the soil is not already rich apply in September, after haying, ten, fifteen or twenty loads per acre of rotted manure, with ashes leached, or unleached if they are to be had, and the increase in the succeeding hay crop will pay all expense. Plaster for clover, and if commercial fertilizers are used, and they should be if there is not enough of others, bone-dust is a capital application for grass. Never pasture the meadow in the fall or spring. The damage is far more than the gain from the feed obtained. As a rule the seed of grasses is not sown thickly enough. A careful calculation from an estimate of the number of seeds in a quart or bushel seems to make a certain quantity amply sufficient for a given area, but the difficulty lies in the fact that about twenty-five per cent. of the seed does not grow and another large per cent. can not, because it is not covered with soil, or is covered too deep. Other grasses should also be sown with timothy and clover to make thicker sod and increase the bulk of growth; such as red top, orchard grass, blue grass, alsike and white clover are good for this purpose, according to the soil and climate. The habit of relying on one or two grasses only does not produce the largest crops obtainable.

In seeding for pasture there is room for improvement. There are portions of almost every farm that are unfitted to enter into the general rotation of the farm, and are more profitable to remain permanently in grass. These should be plowed and seeded with a variety of grasses suited to the soil and such as will give a succession of feed from early spring to the coming of winter and are tenacious of life, that can endure drought, heat and cold, and are perennial. The list suited to our climate is small. There are without doubt many more that would acclimate and succeed well if introduced.

Kentucky blue grass is one of the best, if not the best pasture grass. Botanists assert that it is the same as our June grass, growing more luxuriantly on richer, moister soils. What we call June grass gradually works into most of our soils as the more tender varieties die out, but on dry soil it does not furnish a supply of food the whole season, and there are doubtless other grasses that would on such soils keep up the growth in succession during the season. While experiments have been made with grains and new varieties produced, there has been but little pains taken in improving our grasses, and no very direct efforts been made to introduce new varieties.

In England, on high priced lands the pastures are so rich and so well kept that stock can be kept at a profit; and so can we if we take more pains to get them rich and well seeded, although our climate is not so good as theirs for this purpose, being much drier.

One mistake made in feeding stock on pastures is in allowing them to be eaten off too closely during a drought or late in the fall. At either time it is decidedly at a loss that they are so fed.

If farmers will pay more attention to their grass crops, in enriching the soil, in seeding and after care, they will find them a great help in keeping up the fertility of their soils, both in the manurial elements the sod contains for the grain crops that follow in regular rotation, and also in aiding to keep a large amount of stock to make more manure in the yard. It is a known fact that at least half of the mineral elements in food given to animals is returned to the soil through the manure heap.—Detroit Post and Tribune.

Peculiarities of Speech.

Just as the native Southerner is betrayed in his speech by the peculiarity of voice and pronunciation, so is the Western Yankee distinguished from the New Englander. The typical Yankee, slow of words, talking with a nasal twang, and answering a question by asking another, is still to be met with occasionally. Then the total absence of r-sounds in the words of the inhabitant of Northern New England is another peculiarity; he pronounces such words as warm, storm and the like as if written wahm, stohm, etc., just as the Kentuckian does. He says obleege, deestriet and pictur', but he pronounces can't correctly. In fact he is given to broad vowel sounds, and pass, lass, class, etc., are pronounced after the British method. He likewise enunciates half as correctly as the average schoolma'am of Ohio, and he would laugh himself hoarse at the bare idea of calling a calf a "caff." Such barbarisms as cam, sam and pam, for the pure, noble-sounding words calm, psalm and palm are never heard in this part of the Union. I wish I could say as much for Ohio, for it really seems when one hears a man who has received a university training give utterance to such flat, vapid sounds, that a portion at least of that man's education has been in vain. On the whole, the New England Yankee who has never left his native hills, and whose schooling has been so little that he spells college with a d, speaks, I think, better English, and speaks it more grammatically, than men of other portions of the country whose educational advantages have been greater. Of course, habit has much to do with it; children learn to talk as their parents and grandparents talk, and often years of contact with the world fails to smooth the jagged edges of certain inherited colloquial expressions. For instance, a Maine Yankee will insist upon calling a single horse and buggy a "team;" he says of a pauper that he is "on the town;" of a bankrupt that he has "failed up;" beside pronouncing all words ending in er exactly as though a were the termination. He repudiates the soft impeachment of saying naow, caow and taown, and declares that that system of pronunciation is peculiar to Vermont and York State, and has no place in the vocabulary of a Down-Easter.—Cincinnati Commercial.

"A Screw Loose."

I have written so many articles about the importance of attending to matters on the farm "in the nick of time," when "one stich stich will save nine," if taken at the proper moment, that I am half afraid to write again on a subject which so many of our agricultural writers have rung the changes on, for fear that some one will say it is a hobby of mine, and that so much talk about keeping everything in "apple-pie order," is quite likely to prove "too much of a good thing." But I have just seen so pertinent an illustration of the folly of neglecting what ought to be done now until some time when there was nothing else to do, that I want to make use of it for the benefit of those who can profit more by a narration of actual experience than they can by abstract ideas.

One of my neighbors has a drag-saw. During the winter he goes about, from house to house, sawing wood.

Last week I had him engaged to saw wood for me. The logs were well skidded. Everything was conviently arranged.

When he came he looked over the woodpile, and his face was expressive of satisfaction.

"I can put in a good week's work here," I heard him tell his boy. "They've got everything handy. There won't be anything to bother us. We can saw at least twice as much here as we did at the last place. We'll make a good thing out of it if we don't have any bad luck."

The machine was set, and by noon on Monday, everything was in readiness for operation. I went out to the wood-lot directly after dinner to see the machine started up.

Just before they began to saw, the boy came to his father and said:

"There's a screw loose on the lower part of the saw-frame. It ought to be fixed now; hadn't it!"

"Well, yes, I s'pose it had," was the reply. "But we won't bother with it now, I guess. I'll fall at it and tighten 'em all up after we get through today."

Now, it would not have taken ten minutes to have examined the whole machine and tightened every bolt that was loose. But no—by and by he would attend to it; there was more important business on hand now.

Behold the result! About an hour after they began to saw there was a grand crash, and matters came to a sudden standstill.

On investigation it was found that the "loose screw" had caused the mischief. The frame was broken, and the saw also.

"What does the damage amount to?" I asked.

"Well," was the reply, as the owner looked the machine over, "it will take just about twenty-five dollars to get a new saw and frame. There's that much in cash that's got to go before we can do anything more, and it'll take about four days for the saw to come; so there's the loss of four days' work of myself and team. Figuring them in at three dollars a day, and that's putting it low, there's twelve dollars more, making thirty-seven. You can safely reckon on the accident costing forty or forty-five dollars. That's the way the profits go. But if I'd seen to that loose screw it wouldn't have happened. That's what always comes of letting things ago when you know they ought to be attended to."

I draw no morals. I leave that for the reader to do."—Eben E. Rexford, in Christian Union.

The Cuban Gentleman.

He appears to you at first a man all hair, eyes, teeth and shirt collar. It is not precisely the correct view, but such is apt to be the impression conveyed to a conservative and doubting mind. After better acquaintance he gives you the idea of a man who is at least sui generis, with a unique form of body and a hitherto unclassified type of mind. After a year or two he begins to seem to you to be a rather clever fellow, with traits that are seldom observed to exist in a character otherwise excellent, but an agreeable man in many respects. To a coutenance always expressive of a certain refinement, often of great beauty, and almost never coarse, angular or hard, he joins a physique the thinnest and most attenuated ever found compatible with locomotion and the general control of a muscular system. His legs are spindles, his arms much like flattened sticks somewhat enlarged at the articulations. Of stomach he usually has about as much as birds of the crane species are remarkable for, and is seldom disposed to undue enlargement in the region of the waistband. His shoulders are thin and sharp, and if he stoops slightly, it need not necessarily be regarded as an indication either of scholarship or disease of the lungs. His complexion is seldom fair, and generally of a not unhandsome swarthiness, though sometimes approaching a hue that, by the present opinion of prejudiced mankind, is not exactly a society color. But I have never seen a Cuban with what we call a "dumb" face or an unintelligent eye.

This man is the born dandy. He wears jewelry like a woman and like a woman's. He pinches feet that are small enough naturally into agonizing shoes. He wears collars monstrous in size or ridiculous in smallness, with shirts of dazzling colors and cuts so very decollete that you may observe the sharp ends of his collar-bones and the very bottom of his thin throat. At the date of this writing he goes about the streets with pantaloons that hang upon his little legs like bags, and flap and yaw in the breeze. His coat seems to have been made for a taller man, whereas a year ago it had a tendency to creep upward toward the back of his neck. But the centerpiece and glory of his costume is his hat. Where such fashions in headgear as he delights himself with really have their origin I know not. As the climate is warm, and seemingly for that reason, the hat is narrow, black, heavy and shaped like an inverted stovekettle. This man sometimes attends a ball in a black dress suit, a white necktie and a green shirt. A Cuban town is full of such figures, and few of them are, by any chance, at work at anything. Born in a slave country, the presumptive, probable or actual heir to a share in some sugar plantation, or if not, living by his wits or upon his relations, the young Cubans imagines that his destiny is to ornament the tropics; to be a thing of beauty, and kill time while he is thus elegantly occupied.—Cuban Sketches.

A Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Baptist Minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL cured me." I was troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Electric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diptheria, and "Thomas' Electric Oil cured them," and if taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by snuffing as hard as they can, until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and ear-ache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration, I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere 25 cents a bottle. mar18d-mon-wed-sat-33wly

A POPULAR TONIC

For Weak Lungs and Consumption

No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsements of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tolu, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be adduced to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tolu, Rock and Rye.—Chicago Times. dec21deod8m

Briefiets.

—A regular meeting of the Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., will be held to-night.

—Leopold Wyler lost seven pounds yesterday in handling twenty four kegs of beer, he had just received.

—The Rev. M. G. Hodge has promised to lecture before the Christian Association of Milton College, next Friday.

—The family of Mrs. J. B. Minor was increased this morning by a rosy little stranger. Both the mother and child are doing well.

—The libel suit of Francis Whittaker against Veeder & Leonard, will come up in the United States District Court at Madison to-morrow.

—A telegram was received here to-day from W. C. Coup, the great showman now at Chicago, asking the use of the bill boards in this city from July 1st to the 20th.

—It is rumored, and the rumor is said to be well founded, that one of our business men will soon enter the matrimonial state, and will go to Michigan where the nuptials will be performed.

—The Janesville ball club will play next Friday and Saturday with the Phoenix club of Milwaukee and the Blue stockings of Rockford. The home club will appear in their new uniforms.

—The musical and elocutionary soiree by Mrs. S. R. Noon's pupils, in Cannon's hall this evening, deserves the patronage of all, who are admirers of literary and musical talent and accomplishments.

—A goodly number of ladies composing the Ladies Aid Society met in the Baptist church rooms this afternoon. An old fashioned quilting bee, was the attraction, and a pleasant afternoon was spent.

—The ball games yesterday resulted as follows: Chicago 13, Worcester 3; Providence 12, Detroit 3; Cleveland 5, Boston 3; Troy 5, Buffalo 1; Louisville 4, Baltimore 3; St. Louis 11, Athletic 9; Cincinnati 6, Allegheny 1.

—One of the neatest and most elegant displays ever made in boots and shoes, can be seen at the store of Henry Hemming & Son. It is really a novelty worth looking at, besides everything is of the best make and material.

—Mlle. Marie Litta and her company of lyric artists will be here to-morrow. The concert and opera at Myers' Opera house in the evening will be a notable musical event in Janesville, and one which should not be missed.

—Mr. W. C. Colton, son-in-law of Mr. Frank Gray, is in the city on a visit, and was among the visitors at the Gazette office to-day. Mr. Colton lives at Elizabeth, New Jersey, and is an extensive manufacturer of rubber goods.

IT STIRS—The dormant energies by aiding digestion and giving the liver new life. ZOPESA (from Brazil) cleanses the system of all impurities. Try a 10 cent sample. Sold by Prentice and Evenson.

—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company will sell tickets to Rockford and return, for one dollar and forty eight cents, on Thursday, June 22d, good to return the following day. This will enable all who desire, to attend the races.

—The finance committee for the Fourth of July celebration report very favorably upon the prospects of securing sufficient funds to defray the necessary expenses. The celebration will be a mammoth one and considerable money will be needed.

—Two very pleasant social events occurred last evening, at the residences of Mrs. C. Miner and Mrs. H. A. Patterson. Both were well attended and a most enjoyable time experienced. Mrs. Miner's guests were greatly surprised to see the elegant set of hand decorated crockery upon which refreshments were served. The evening was passed delectably in conversation and music.

LADIES WHO APPRECIATE ELEGANCE and purity are using Parker's Hair Balsam. It is the best article sold for restoring gray hair to its orginal color and beauty.

The Weathor.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS

The thermometer at 7 a. m. to-day registered 64 degrees above zero and at 1 p. m. 73 degrees. For the same hours last year it was 54 and 67 degrees above.

The indications for to-day were:

Lake Region—Slightly warmer weather, east to south winds, falling barometer, increasing cloudiness, local rains.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

Some New Improvements.

An era of improvements is about to be inaugurated in the city, comprising enterprises of considerable importance and magnitude. Malleable iron works are to be established on Main street, and additions will be made to the Doty mills. In keeping with the strides of business, the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad will run a new line of track connecting with the mill und iron works, having its terminus within two or three blocks of the Gazette office, on Main street. The track will switch off from the main line near the gas house and pass under the bridge. This will be a great convenience to the mill and iron men, besides giving a more animated and busy appearance to that portion of the city.

IT IS SO PLEASANT—It is so certain and easy in its action. It invigorates the nerve, brain, and muscle. ZOPESA does these things simply by giving active Digestion, and regulating the Stomach and Liver.

A BIG HAUL.

The Jewelry Firm of Holmes and Reese, of Beloit Burglarized and Robbed of $6,000.

A daring and successful burglary was committed in Beloit last night, resulting in the loss to the largest jewelry establishment in the town of nearly $6,000 in goods and money. All the circumstances attending the affair, show it to have been the work of skilled burglars, who had acquainted themselves thoroughly with the surroundings. No clue whatever, has been left by the robbers, and Messers. Holmes and Reese the despoiled firm, entertain little hope that any of their goods will be recovered.

On opening the store this morning the floor was found covered with articles of jewelry and the door of the safe open. The costliest goods in the place were gone and a considerable sum in money An examination was made of the premises, and a hasty inventory taken of the stock, as it was at first believed owing to the state of things, that the robbery had been more extensive. About every piece of diamond goods in the house was gone and a large number of rings and other small jewelry, including three or four valuable watches. The burglar or burglars, as there were doubtless more than one, were evidently connoisseurs, and abstracted only the best in the place and the most portable.

It was a comparatively easy matter to enter the store, but as the greater portion of the stock, particularly the diamonds and costly rings were stowed away in the safe it was not so facile an operation, to secure them, and force the combination lock. The robbers, however, were equal to the emergency, and did as neat a piece of work, as was ever executed, The tools which were used in opening the safe were found on the floor this morning and are of the most approved pattern of burglarious instruments, made of the finest steel. The evidences about the lock showed that a hole had been drilled through the safe door midway between the combination, in the precise spot necessary to remove the connecting bar between the knob. The slightest variation, the sixtieth part of an inch even, out of the way, would have made the undertaking unsuccessful, but the workman managed to catch the rod, in the exact place, and broke it.

The door was then easily swung open, and the thieves selected their spoils. The diamond jewelry and other small articles were placed in trays, which were taken out of the safe and inspected on the floor, as the the trays were found outside the safe this morning. No heavy gold or silver was touched, and the plated goods had evidently been only casually examined.

The value of the stolen property is estimated by the firm at $5,000 in addition to which about $500 in money which was in the safe, is gone. No trail of any description was left by the robbers, except the possibility of identification through the tools used, or that of the diamonds. The prospect, however of discovery, by means of identification of the jewelery is a very dim one. Detectives will be placed on the case and every effort made to capture the robbers.

Cannon's Hall Improved.

Mr. Cannon has recently been making some marked improvements in his already beautiful hall on West Milwaukee street. He has put in two windows above the gallery on the east side, which will furnish plenty of light and excellent ventilation. He has also had painted some appropriate scenery for the stage, and the drop curtain is especially good. In addition to all this he has purchased an expensive concert grand piano, manufactured by the Decker Brothers, and is counted the most expensive piano in the city. This instrument will be kept in the hall for use when concerts and other entertainments are given in the hall.

Mr. Cannon is sparing neither trouble nor expense in making his hall attractive. He is doing good work for which he has the thanks of the public.

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the Teeth and Breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try a 5 cent sample. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

In Their New Quarters.

As was expected, the dedication of the Concordia Society's new hall, last night was attended by a large party, every one of whom enjoyed the proceedings. The main hall was prettily hung with evergreens, giving a bright picturesque appearance to the surroundings, and at the far end garlands of the same material were shaped into the letters forming the word Concordia. The dedicatory exercises were short and entertaining, the Bower City Band opening with a choice selection. Mr. Ogden H. Fethers was introduced by Mr. John Bauman president of the society, and delivered an address replete with utterances of welcome to the society and its friends, and complimentary allusions to the success which has always attended its efforts in any direction. A few additional selections were rendered by the Bower City band, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing, Anderson's Orchestra furnishing the music.

Excursion Tickets.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co. have on sale at their office in this city, excursion tickets to Clear Lake, Iowa, and return for $11.90, good for thirty days from date of sale. This is the grand Sunday school camping ground, and will probably be visited by many persons from this vicinity.

Geo. Meredith, Jersey City, writes: "THE SPRING BLOSSOM you sent me has had the happiest effect on my daughter; her head ache and depression of spirits have vanished. She is again able to go to school, and is as lively as a cricket. I shall certainly recommend it to all my friends." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

A LIGHT-FINGERED LADY.

Marshal Hogan Does a Clever Piece of Detective Work in Capturing a Watch Thief.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. Mary Hartley, of Waukesha, was arrested by Marshal Hogan late yesterday afternoon, for stealing a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Charles Peakling, residing on Center avenue in the Fifth ward. The Hartley woman came here last Friday, avowedly to work in the woolen factory, and boarded with Mrs. Peakling, yesterday, the latter lady missed her watch and chan which had been placed on the bureau, and as a most diligent search failed to turn it up, she felt sure it had been purloined by some one. Marshal Hogan was informed of the theft, and immediately proceeded to do some good detective work. Learning that the Hartley woman stopped at the house, and having noticed her on the street for several days, he concluded that she would most probably know something of the missing article. Mrs. Hartley was not at home, but a young man named Peake, who was regarded with suspicion, left the house while the marshal was there, and was soon afterwards arrested. Peake was a frequent visitor to a young man who was ill at the Peakling residence, and was released from custody when the real thief was captured.

The marshal returned to the city, but was sent for according to stipulation when the Hartley woman got back to the house, and placed her under arrest. She assumed an air of injured innocence, and violently protested against what she termed an outrage. She finally confessed, however, after the marshal subjected her to some shrewd interrogatories and in company with the marshal went to the store of A. Horn & Son, where the watch had been left to be regulated. She begged piteously to be released, promising the officer $25 and the watch, to allow her to leave town. At Horn's she gave the name of Miss May Cavaney.

Mrs. Hartley stated that having hurt her foot Monday forenoon while working at the woolen factory, she had resigned her place. She is a woman of about 29 years of age, and claims to have a husband and three children in Waukesha.

The complaint charges her with stealing a watch valued at $75 and a chain at $10. She appeared in court this afternoon and stated to Justice Patten that she simply borrowed the watch, to decorate herself with, while having her picture taken. She had not informed Mrs. Peakling of the fact, thinking a little formality of that kind, useless. The case was continued to Thursday morning. Mr. Emmons is her counsel.

Milton Junction.

—Rev. Dr. Wardner left last week for Villa Ridge, Ill., where he will visit his son a few days, and returning attend the S. D. B. Association at West Hallock, Ill. Deacon L. T. Rogers will also attend the association from this place.

—Bliss & Maxon had a delivery of Champion reapers and mowers on Monday. About one-third of the number sold by this firm this season was delivered on that day.

—The graded school, of this village, under the direction of Prof. Bartholf, closed the exercises of the current year on Friday last with a rousing picnic at Lake Koshkonong, at which the school in general and a large number of its patrons and friends were present, and notwithstanding a light shower, enjoyed a very pleasant day. The school has done substantial work the past year under the direction of the Professor, and the earnest efforts of himself and his able assistant, Miss Myrtie Larkin. Prof. Bartholf retires from the school with the close of the term to enter upon his new field of labor, the editorial sanctum, he having purchased the office of the Milton Express. The Professor has talent, means, ambition and push, and if he don't succeed in establishing a successful paper in Milton, it will be the fault of the locality rather than the man.

—Capt. Henry Coon and Prof. Frank Burdick and families, of Utica, Wis., spent Tuesday afternoon in town, enroute to West Halleck, Ill.

—The heavy rains of the past few days in localities around us, seems to have left this immediate locality without rain enough to do any material good.

—Dr. Seldon Cady, of Emmettsburg, Iowa, made us a pleasant visit on Thursday last, on his way home from the reunion of the 13th at Whitewater.

—Mr. Ira Burdick and family, late of Janesville, left here on Thursday night for their new home in Dakota. Mr. Burdick has purchased quite a tract of land there and will occupy the same at once.

—Ed. Maxon, of Emmettsburg, Iowa, has been spending a few days in town visiting his many friends. Ed is doing a thriving business in that western city. In addition to his half interest in his drug and notion store, he has taken a one-third interest in a general merchandise establishment in the same town.

—The side walk nearly the whole length of Merchants row has been rebuilt in the past few days under the direction of the Supervisors and is now in good condition.

—Rev. Varnum Hull occupied the Seventh Day Baptist Pulpit on Saturday morning last in Elder Wardners absence and as had been advertised his theme was a general reply to Ingersoll from whom he quoted and read largely during the review the Rev. gentleman made many hard hits and telling points against the position of the great adversary of the Bible but he evidently had to large a subject for a single sermon.

Bed-ridden and Cured.

W. E. HUEISTS, of Emporia, Kansas, says that his wife had been sick nearly seven years, and for the last four months bed-ridden. She has been treated by a number of physicians and only grew worse. He attention was called to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," which she commenced using. In one week she could sit up and in three weeks could walk about. By druggists.

Emerald Grove.

—Alfred Phillips is building a new barn, 30x60. Colling, of Janesville, is the carpenter.

—A number of farmers in this vicinity are painting their dwelling houses and out buildings. Among them we notice Ezra Cheesebro and Frank Childs, of La Prairie and Jesse Putnam, east of here.

—Rev. D. B. Jackson and Mr. R. Cheney represented the Congregational church at East Troy last week.

—No service last Sabbath evening in the Methodist church Rev. Mr. Richardson being absent to hear Bishop Merrill preach in Janesville.

—Mrs. Merriman has returned to her old home here.

—Mrs. L. Van Allen, who has heretofore enjoyed excellent health, was stricken down last week with paralysis of the left side, and is now in a feeble and precarious condition. It is hoped she may yet recover.

—Mrs. Lowell, of Janesville, whose health has been very poor for some time, was removed last week to her father's house, Mr. R. Cheney, for rest and change of air.

—Rumors are rife of a wedding to take place next week in the "Wooden Nutmeg State," of a gentleman well known in these parts and in Janesville, whose parents do not live a thousand miles from Emerald Grove.

—W. S. Squire has returned from his Dakota trip much pleased with the country.

A POPULAR TONIC

For Weak Lungs and Consumption

No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsements of physicians or patients as the celebrated "Tolu, Rock and Rye." The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and can be adduced to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tolu, Rock and Rye.—Chicago Times. dec21deod6m

—The Rev. M. G. Hodge has promised to lecture before the Christian Association of Milton College, next Friday.

—The family of Mrs. J. B. Minor was increased this morning by a rosy little stranger. Both the mother and child are doing well.

—The libel suit of Francis Whittaker against Veeder & Leonard, will come up in the United States District Court at Madison to-morrow.

—A telegram wae received here to-day from W. C. Coup, the great showman now at Chicago, asking the use of the bill boards in this city from July 1st to the 20th.

—It is rumored, and the rumor is said to be well founded, that one of our business men will soon enter the matrimonial state, and will go to Michigan where the nuptials will be performed.

—The Janesville ball club will play next Friday and Saturday with the Phoenix club of Milwaukee and the Blue stockings of Rockford. The home club will appear in their new uniforms.

—The musical and elocutionary soiree by Mrs. S. R. Noon's pupils, in Cannon's hall this evening, deserves the patronage of all, who are admirers of literary and musical talent and accomplishments.

—A goodly number of ladies composing the Ladies Aid Society met in the Baptist church rooms this afternoon. An old fashioned quilting bee, was the attraction, and a pleasant afternoon was spent.

—The ball games yesterday resulted as follows: Chicago 13, Worcester 3; Providence 12, Detroit 3; Cleveland 5, Boston 3; Troy 5, Buffalo 1; Louisville 4, Baltimore 3; St. Louis 11, Athletic 9; Cincinnati 6, Allegheny 1.

—One of the neatest and most elegant displays ever made in boots and shoes, can be seen at the store of Henry Hemming & Son. It is really a novelty worth looking at, besides everything is of the best make and material.

—Mlle. Marie Litta and her company of lyric artists will be here to-morrow. The concert and opera at Myers' Opera house in the evening will be a notable musical event in Janesville, and one which should not be missed.

—The finance committee for the Fourth of July celebration report very favorably upon the prospects of securing sufficient funds to defray the necessary expenses. The celebration will be a mammoth one and considerable money will be needed.

—Two very pleasant social events occurred last evening, at the residences of Mrs. C. Miner and Mrs. H. A. Patterson. Both were well attended and a most enjoyable time experienced. Mrs. Miner's guests were greatly surprised to see the elegant set of hand decorated crockery upon which refreshments were served. The evening was passed delectably in conversation and music.

LADIES WHO APPRECIATE ELEGANCE and purity are using Parker's Hair Balsam. It is the best article sold for restoring gray hair to its orginal color and beauty.

The Weather.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 7 a. m. to-day registered 64 degrees above zero and at 1 p. m. 73 degrees. For the same hours last year it was 54 and 67 degrees above.

The indications for to-day were:

Lake Region—Slightly warmer weather, east to south winds, falling barometer, increasing cloudiness, local rains.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery undsr the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The Parents.

Some New Improvements.

An era of improvements is about to be inaugurated in the city, comprising enterprises of considerable importance and magnitude. Malleable iron works are to be established on Main street, and additions will be made to the Doty mills. In keeping with the strides of business, the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad will run a new line of track connecting with the mill und iron works, having its terminus within two or three blocks of the Gazette office, on Main street. The track will switch off from the main line near the gas house and pass under the bridge. This will be a great convenience to the mill and iron men, besides giving a more animated and busy appearance to that portion of the city.

IT IS SO PLEASANT—It is so certain and easy in its action. It invigorates the nerve, brain, and muscle. ZOPESA does these things simply by giving active Digestion, and regulating the Stomach and Liver.

A BIG HAUL.

The Jewelry Firm of Holmes and Reese, of Beloit Burglarized and Robbed of $6,000.

A daring and successful burglary was committed in Beloit last night, resulting in the loss to the largest jewelry establishment in the town of nearly $6,000 in goods and money. All the circumstances attending the affair, show it to have been the work of skilled burglars, who had acquainted themselves thoroughly with the surroundings. No clue whatever, has been left by the robbers, and Messers. Holmes and Reese the despoiled firm, entertain little hope that any of their goods will be recovered.

On opening the store this morning the floor was found covered with articles of jewelry and the door of the safe open. The costliest goods in the place were gone and a considerable sum in money An examination was made of the premises, and a hasty inventory taken of the stock, as it was at first believed owing to the state of things, that the robbery had been more extensive. About every piece of diamond goods in the house was gone and a large number of rings and other small jewelry, including three or four valuable watches. The burglar or burglars, as there were doubtless more than one, were evidently connoisseurs, and abstracted only the best in the place and the most portable.

It was a comparatively easy matter to enter the store, but as the greater portion of the stock, particularly the diamonds and costly rings were stowed away in the safe it was not so facile an operation, to secure them, and force the combination lock. The robbers, however, were equal to the emergency, and did as neat a piece of work, as was ever executed, The tools which were used in opening the safe were found on the floor this morning and are of the most approved pattern of burglarious instruments, made of the finest steel. The evidences about the lock showed that a hole had been drilled through the safe door midway between the combination, in the precise spot necessary to remove the connecting bar between the knob. The slightest variation, the sixtieth part of an inch even, out of the way, would have made the undertaking unsuccessful, but the workman managed to catch the rod, in the exact place, and broke it.

The door was then easily swung open, and the thieves selected their spoils. The diamond jewelry and other small articles were placed in trays, which were taken out of the safe and inspected on the floor, as the the trays were found outside the safe this morning. No heavy gold or silver was touched, and the plated goods had evidently been only casually examined.

The value of the stolen property is estimated by the firm at $5,000 in addition to which about $500 in money which was in the safe, is gone. No trail of any description was left by the robbers, except the possibility of identification through the tools used, or that of the diamonds. The prospect, however of discovery, by means of identification of the jewelery is a very dim one. Detectives will be placed on the case and every effort made to capture the robbers.

Cannon's Hall Improved.

Mr. Cannon has recently been making some marked improvements in his already beautiful hall on West Milwaukee street. He has put in two windows above the gallery on the east side, which will furnish plenty of light and excellent ventilation. He has also had painted some appropriate scenery for the stage, and the drop curtain is especially good. In addition to all this he has purchased an expensive concert grand piano, manufactured by the Decker Brothers, and is counted the most expensive piano in the city. This instrument will be kept in the hall for use when concerts and other entertainments are given in the hall.

Mr. Cannon is sparing neither trouble nor expense in making his hall attractive. He is doing good work for which he has the thanks of the public.

KISS ME.—"TEABERRY," the new and exquisite little gem for the Teeth and Breath, has a beautifully plated metal screw top. Try a 5 cent sample. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

In Their New Quarters.

As was expected, the dedication of the Concordia Society's new hall, last night was attended by a large party, every one of whom enjoyed the proceedings. The main hall was prettily hung with evergreens, giving a bright picturesque appearance to the surroundings, and at the far end garlands of the same material were shaped into the letters forming the word Concordia. The dedicatory exercises were short and entertaining, the Bower City Band opening with a choice selection. Mr. Ogden H. Fethers was introduced by Mr. John Bauman president of the society, and delivered an address replete with utterances of welcome to the society and its friends, and complimentary allusions to the success which has always attended its efforts in any direction. A few additional selections were rendered by the Bower City band, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing, Anderson's Orchestra furnishing the music.

Excursion Tickets.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co. have on sale at their office in this city, excursion tickets to Clear Lake, Iowa, and return for $11.90, good for thirty days from date of sale. This is the grand Sunday school camping ground, and will probably be visited by many persons from this vicinity.

Geo. Meredith, Jersey City, writes: "THE SPRING BLOSSOM you sent me has had the happiest effect on my daughter; her head ache and depression of spirits have vanished. She is again able to go to school, and is as lively as a cricket. I shall certainly recommend it to all my friends." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

A LIGHT-FINGERED LADY.

Marshal Hogan Does a Clever Piece of Detective Work in Capturing a Watch Thief.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. Mary Hartley, of Waukesha, was arrested by Marshal Hogan late yesterday afternoon, for stealing a gold watch and chain from Mrs. Charles Peakling, residing on Center avenue in the Fifth ward. The Hartley woman came here last Friday, avowedly to work in the woolen factory, and boarded with Mrs. Peakling, yesterday, the latter lady missed her watch and chan which had been placed on the bureau, and as a most diligent search failed to turn it up, she felt sure it had been purloined by some one. Marshal Hogan was informed of the theft, and immediately proceeded to do some good detective work. Learning that the Hartley woman stopped at the house, and having noticed her on the street for several days, he concluded that she would most probably know something of the missing article. Mrs. Hartley was not at home, but a young man named Peake, who was regarded with suspicion, left the house while the marshal was there, and was soon afterwards arrested. Peake was a frequent visitor to a young man who was ill at the Peakling residence, and was released from custody when the real thief was captured.

The marshal returned to the city, but was sent for according to stipulation when the Hartley woman got back to the house, and placed her under arrest. She assumed an air af injured innocence, and violently protested against what she termed an outrage. She finally confessed, however, after the marshal subjected her to some shrewd interrogatories and in company with the marshal went to the store of A. Horn & Son, where the watch had been left to be regulated. She begged piteously to be released, promising the officer $25 and the watch, to allow her to leave town. At Horn's she gave the name of Miss May Cavaney.

Mrs. Hartley stated that having hurt her foot Monday forenoon while working at the woolen factory, she had resigned her place. She is a woman of about 29 years of age, and claims to have a husband and three children in Waukesha.

The complaint charges her with stealing a watch valued at $75 and a chain at $10. She appeared in court this afternoon and stated to Justice Patten that she simply borrowed the watch, to decorate herself with, while having her picture taken. She had not informed Mrs. Peakling of the fact, thinking a little formality of that kind, useless. The case was continued to Thursday morning. Mr. Emmons is her counsel.

Milton Junction.

—Rev. Dr. Wardner left last week for Villa Ridge, Ill., where he will visit his son a few days, and returning attend the S. D. B. Association at West Hallock, Ill. Deacon L. T. Rogers will also attend the association from this place.

—Bliss & Maxon had a delivery of Champion reapers and mowers on Monday. About one-third of the number sold by this firm this season was delivered on that day.

—The graded school, of this village, under the direction of Prof. Bartholf, closed the exercises of the current year on Friday last with a rousing picnic at Lake Koshkonong, at which the school in general and a large number of its patrons and friends were present, and notwithstanding a light shower, enjoyed a very pleasant day. The school has done substantial work the past year under the direction of the Professor, and the earnest efforts of himself and his able assistant, Miss Myrtie Larkin. Prof. Bartholf retires from the school with the close of the term to enter upon his new field of labor, the editorial sanctum, he having purchased the office of the Milton Express. The Professor has talent, means, ambition and push, and if he don't succeed in establishing a successful paper in Milton, it will be the fault of the locality rather than the man.

—Capt. Henry Coon and Prof. Frank Burdick and families, of Utica, Wis., spent Tussday afternoon in town, enroute to West Halleck, Ill.

—The heavy rains of the past few days in localities around us, seems to have left this immediate locality without rain enough to do any material good.

—Dr. Seldon Cady, of Emmettsburg, Iowa, made us a pleasant visit on Thursday last, on his way home from the reunion of the 13th at Whitewater.

—Mr. Ira Burdick and family, late of Janesville, left here on Thursday night for their new home in Dakota. Mr. Burdick has purchased quite a tract of land there and will occupy the same at once.

—Ed. Maxon, of Emmettsburg, Iowa, has been spending a few days in town visiting his many friends. Ed is doing a thriving business in that western city. In addition to his half interest in his drug and notion store, he has taken a one-third interest in a general merchandise establishment in the same town.

—The side walk nearly the whole length of Merchants row has been rebuilt in the past few days under the direction of the Supervisors and is now in good condition.

—Rev. Varnum Hull occupied the Seventh Day Baptist Pulpit on Saturday morning last in Elder Wardners absence and as had been advertised his theme was a general reply to Ingersoll from whom he quoted and read largely during the review the Rev. gentleman made many hard hits and telling points against the position of the great adversary of the Bible but he evidently had to large a subject for a single sermon.

Bed-ridden and Cured.

W. E. HUEISTS, of Emporia, Kansas, says that his wife had been sick nearly seven years, and for the last four months months bed-ridden. She has been treated by a number of physicians and only grew worse. He attention was called to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," which she commenced using. In one week she could sit up and in three weeks could walk about. By druggists.

Emerald Grove.

—Alfred Phillips is building a new barn, 30x60. Colling, of Janesville, is the carpenter.

—A number of farmers in this vicinity are painting their dwelling houses and out buildings. Among them we notice Ezra Cheesebro and Frank Childs, of La Prairie and Jesse Putnam, east of here.

—Rev. D. B. Jackson and Mr. R. Cheney represented the Congregational church at East Troy last week.

—No service last Sabbath evening in the Methodist church Rev. Mr. Richardson being absent to hear Bishop Merrill preach in Janesville.

—Mrs. Merriman has returned to her old home here.

—Mrs. L. Van Allen, who has heretofore enjoyed excellent health, was stricken down last week with paralysis of the left side, and is now in a feeble and precarious condition. It is hoped she may yet recover.

—Mrs. Lowell, of Janesville, whose health has been very poor for some time, was removed last week to her father's house, Mr. R. Cheney, for rest and change of air.

—Rumors are rife of a wedding to take place next week in the "Wooden Nutmeg State," of a gentleman well known in these parts and in Janesville, whose parents do not live a thousand miles from Emerald Grove.

—W. S. Squire has returned from his Dakota trip much pleased with the country.

Prehistoric Tides.

At present the moon is 240,000 miles away, but there was a time when the moon was only one-sixth part of this, or say 40,000 miles away. That time must have corresponded to some geological epoch. It may have been earlier than the time when Eozoon lived. It was more likely to have been later. I want to point out that when the moon was only 40,000 miles away we had in it a geological engine of transcendent power. If the present tides be three feet, and if the early tides be 216 times their present amount, then it is plain that the ancient tides must have been 648 feet.

There can be know doubt that in ancient times tides of this amount, and even tides very much larger, must have occurred. I ask the geologists to take account of these facts, and to consider the effect—a tidal rise and fall of 648 feet twice every day. Dwell for one moment on the sublime spectacle of a tide 648 feet high, and see what an agent it would be for the performance of geological work! We are now standing, I suppose, some 500 feet above the level of the sea. The sea is a good many miles from Birmingham, yet if the rise and fall at the coasts were 648 feet, Birmingham might be as great a seaport as Liverpool. Three-quarters tide would bring the sea into the streets of Birmingham. At high tide there would be about 150 feet of blue water over our heads. Every house would be covered, and the tops of a few chimneys would alone indicate the site of the town.

In a few hours more the whole of this vast flood would have retreated. Not only would it leave England high and dry, but probably the Straits of Dover would be drained, and perhaps even Ireland would, in a literal sense, become a member of the United Kingdom. A few hours passed, and the whole of England is again inundated, but only again to be abandoned.

These mighty tides are the gift which astronomers have now made to the working machinery of the geologists. They constitute an engine of terrific power to aid in the great work of geology. What would the puny efforts of water in other ways accomplish when compared with these majestic tides and the great currents they produce?

In the great primeval tides will probably be found the explanation of what has long been a reproach to geology. The early palæozoic rocks form a stupendous mass of ocean-made beds, which, according to Professor Williamson, are twenty miles thick up to the top of the silurian beds. It has long been a difficulty to conceive how such a gigantic quantity of material could have been ground up and deposited at the bottom of the sea. The geologists said: "The rivers and other agents of the present day will do it if you give them time enough." But, unfortunately, the mathematicians and the natural philosophers would not give them time enough, and they ordered the geologists to "hurry up their phenomena." The mathematicians had other reasons for believing that the earth could not have been so old as the geologists demanded. Now, however, the mathematicians have discovered the new and stupendous tidal grinding engine. With this powerful aid the geologist can get through their work in a reasonable period of time, and the geologists and the mathematicians may be reconciled.—Lecture by Prof. Ball.

A Legend.

There was a dispute among three maidens as to which had the most beautiful hand. One sat by the stream, and dipped her hand into the water and held it up; another plucked stawberries until the ends of her fingers were pink, and another gathered violets until her hands were fragrant. An old, haggard woman passing by asked: "Who will give me a gift, for I am poor?" All three denied her; but another who sat near, unwashed in the stream, unstained with fruit, unadorned with flowers, gave her a little gift, and satisfied the poor woman. And then she asked them what was the dispute, and they told, and lifted up before her their beautiful hands. "Beautiful, indeed," said she, when she saw them. But when they asked her which was the most beautiful she said: "It is not the hand that is washed clean in the brook; it is not the hand that is tipped with red; it is not the hand that is garlanded with fragrant flowers, but it is the hand that gives to the poor which is the most beautiful."

As she said these words her wrinkles fled, her staff was thrown away, and she stood before them an angel from heaven with authority to decide the question in dispute.

He who turns against one who has done him personal favors and oft befriended him is worse than the one turned against, no matter how bad the latter may be.

Jokes of the Conductors.

It is probable that railroad conductors play more jokes on each other than any other class of people, and we would publish more of them, only the most of the conductors are big men who might tie us up in a double bow-knot. We tell more jokes on Rumsay than any of the rest, because he is probably the only one we could handle in a rough and tumble fight. Fred Cornes and Rumsey are representative conductors, in regard to fun, and each is laying for the other to play a joke. Not long ago Rumsey hired a passenger that was going out on Fred's train, a fellow who had three cat boils on his face, to go into the refrigerator in one corner of the car, and when Fred came to pull him out, to tell him he had the smallpox. The scheme worked splendidly, and Fred went into the baggage car and washed himself all over in a tin wash basin, with bar soap, and stopped the train at Brookfield Junction and let the passenger get off without paying, that being his destination. As the train was moving off the passenger yelled to Cornes and told him if he saw Rumsey in Milwaukee to tell him that the cat boils passed him through all right. Cornes at once saw through the joke and laid for Rumsey. A spell ago the two met, and both were tired, so Fred suggested that they take a Turkish bath and go up to his house and get dinner, and then lay down and have a good sleep. Rumsey consented, if Fred would promise to wake him up at five o'clock, as he had an engagement to meet a lumberman who wanted to buy some of his pine land. Fred agreed, and they went up to the house on Keewaunee street, near the school house, where Fred comes home once in a while, and went to bed. After they had slept for a couple of hours Fred got up and darkened the windows, lit the gas in the room and turned the clock ahead to half past seven o'clock. Fred's wife was let into the joke, and she darkened the rooms down stairs, and the hall, and lit all the gas. Then Fred went up and woke Rumsey, who yawned and rolled over. Rumsey looked at the gas burning, and then at the clock, and saying, "This is a pretty trick to play on a gentleman," he jumped out of bed and got into his pants. As he pulled on his boots he told Fred that was the last time he would catch him in that house. "I have been drugged," said he, as he grabbed a cigar and his coat and vest and started down stairs. He stopped in the hall by the dim gas light to button his suspenders, and pulling on his vest, he took his coat on his arm, yelled an adieu to Mrs. Cornes and opened the door and jumped to the middle of the sidewalk. Let Rumsey tell the rest of the story. Says he: "I pledge you my word it was light as day. The sun was shining brighter than I ever saw it, and more than a million children were coming out of the school-house. When they saw me come out of the house on a hop, skip and jump, they thought I had been fired out, and they gave me a big laugh. I looked around sort of innocent, just as though I always came out of houses that way, and then put on my coat and looked at my watch, and it was just four o'clock. My first impulse was to go back into the house and murder Cornes, but he stood at the window with his wife, looking so sorry, that I just lit my cigar and walked off. But I am laying for him, now, and don't you forget it. No man can play me for a snoozer. You just wait. Some day you will hear more about this. There don't any of them get away with Rumsey. Why, I killed a man at Rush Lake Junction, once, for less than that."—Peck's Sun.

Drinking in "Good Society."

A column in a Philadelphia paper headed "In Good Society," divulges the following: "The practice of drinking is more common among women than it was a year ago. The number of young unmarried ladies who drink wine with gentlemen is increasing, and, strange as it may appear, the effectual protection against over indulgence by young unmarried ladies upon which society depends, is the honor of the gentleman. Young ladies seldom are able to judge how much wine they ought to drink, and some wines have more intoxicating effect than others. A gentleman who would persuade or deceive a lady into drinking more wine than was good for her would be almost sure to forfeit her esteem ever afterward, and in any event would incur the strongest displeasure of her relatives if they found it out. This is one of the reasons why, sometimes in taking a young lady home, the gentleman has the driver to go a mile or so our of the way in order to get a little fresh air. Where there is dancing it is considered indiscreet to drink early in the evening, since if the lady falls by accident or has many collisions she is sure to be accused of 'taking too much,' as they say. For that reason drinking is usually deferred until after the dancing."

Haunted Me.

Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost.—A Workingman.

It stirs—The dormant energies by aiding digestion and giving the liver new life. ZOPESA (from Brazil) cleanses the system of all impurities. Try a 10 cent sample. Sold by Prentice and Evenson.

There are four kinds of men who lose time—the man who is always waiting at the street corners trying to persuade his little dog to catch up to him; the man who spends four or five hours a day trying to color a bogus meerschaum pipe; the man who is generally explaining to his friends how and under what circumstances he was presented with his expensive cane, and the man who, having pretty hair, wishes to keep the part in exact shape and appearance.

The man who said he lost his leg betting on an election must have been a twin brother to one of the Missouri Confederate soldiers, who, during the war, were to be paid off at Memphis, provided they had the State's certificate of indebtedness; on satisfactory proof of loss of the certificate they could be paid. This one, who lacked the document, on being asked where it was, said he had lost it. How had he lost it? Lost it playing poker.

Light and Near-Sightedness.

Professor Pickering, of Harvard Observatory, points out in Nature that the color of gas-light has nothing to do with its painful effect upon the eyes of students and others. To test this question he had a tin lamp-shade constructed, consisting of a tube six inches in diameter by eight in length. One end was closed by a reflector and the other by a piece of very light blue glass. Two holes were made in the sides, through which passed the glass chimney of an argand gas-burner. By experimenting with a shadow photometer, a position was found where the light received on a book was of the same intensity, and very similar color, to that from a window in the daytime, at a distance of about six feet. A few minutes' reading, however, was sufficient to convince him that the new light was far more trying to the eyes than an ordinary gas-flame would be, the ill-effects being due to the intense heat thrown down by the reflector. And this he thinks is the source of the whole trouble in the ordinary gas-burner. The heat radiated by the flame, the heated chimney and shade, and reflected from the printed page and all other white paper lying on the table, dries the eyes, the lids, the forhead and temples. Temporary relief may be found by bathing the face and eyes in water, but it is only temporary. The hot dry air from the lamp is also harmful, and no doubt contributes its share of injury to the vision. These evils may both in part be remedied by placing a pane of glass so as to intercept the rays of light before they strike on the book or the face. But it must be placed at such a distance from the lamp as not itself to become heated.

The hotter the flame the whiter it is, and the more light is thrown off in proportion to the heat. Hence oculists are recommending such lights as the Student's and Moderator lamps, which burn with a small, hot and very brilliant flame, as compared with that furnished by the argand and fish-tail burners. Statistics, said Professor Pickering, show how alarmingly prevalent near-sightedness has become of late among students. Hence anything which will tend in the future to prevent this wide-spread defect will be a boon to mankind. He had great hopes of the electric light in this respect. In it there was the maximum of light with the minimum of heat. Its over-varying intensity was an objection, but he thought we might look forward to the success of the light from the incandescent carbon strip, in the near future, as a remedy for "the most wide-spread evil that afflicts the human vision."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Over 5000 Druggists AND Physicians

Have Signed or Endorsed the Following Remarkable Document:

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 21 Platt St., New York:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Parmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

When other remedies fail get a Benson's Capcine Plaster.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

THE PEOPLE'S ROUTE THROUGH THE GOLDEN NORTH-WEST IS THE

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway.

ITS 4,500 MILES OF FIRST-CLASS RAILROAD

Include Through Routes between the terminal points of all the heavy lines shown on this map.

An examination of which, and reference to the latest Atlas of the country, will show that this is

The Business Men's, Tourists' and Health-Seekers' Bonanza,

As it is the DIRECT, and, in most cases, the ONLY ROUTE to the great and leading BUSINESS CENTERS, HEALTH AND PLEASURE RESORTS of NORTHERN ILLINOIS, all WISCONSIN, IOWA, MINNESOTA and DAKOTA.

Consult the leading Railway Guides and Map-Folder Time Tables of this Road, and learn the leaving and arriving time of the Magnificent Trains of

PALATIAL SLEEPING AND DRAWING-ROOM CARS

—AND—

SUMPTUOUS COACHES AND SMOKING CARS,

At every considerable point in the territory named; then get tickets reading over the "CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE AND ST. PAUL RAILWAY," and be sure no other name is given them—and you will have the privilege of enjoying the excellence of the BEST CARRIAGES, the BEST HOTELS and DINING-HALLS, and the BEST SERVICE in every particular to be found in the world.

THIS NEW AND CORRECT MAP

Proves beyond any reasonable question that the

CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN R'Y

Is by all odds the best road for you to take when traveling in either direction between Chicago and all of the Principal Points in the West, North and Northwest.

Carefully examine this Map. The Principal Cities of the West and Northwest are Stations on this road. Its through trains make close connections with the trains of all railroads at junction points.

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Over all of its principal lines, runs each way daily from two to four or more Fast Express Trains. It is the only road West, North or Northwest of Chicago that uses the IMPERIAL PALACE DINING CARS.

It is the only road that runs Pullman Sleeping Cars North or Northwest of Chicago. It has over 3,000 MILES OF ROAD. It forms, amongst others, the following Trunk Lines:

Council Bluffs, Colorado & California Line.
"Sioux City & Northeastern Nebraska Line."
"Elgin, Rockford, Freeport & Dubuque Line."
"Jim River Valley, Pierre & Deadwood Line."
"Winona, Minnesota & Central Dakota Line."
"Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis Line."
"Milwaukee, Green Bay & Lake Superior Line"
"Waukesha, Madison Northern Line."

Tickets over this road are sold by Coupon Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada. Remember to ask for Tickets via this road, be sure they read over it, and take none other.
